A Sacramento man in Chicago thinks he has solved the problem of restaurant rates on the Fair grounds by getting so interested in the show that he forgot to eat anything. Absorbing interest may take the place of one or two square meals, but it will hardly fill the bill as a steady diet, even for an open-mouthed Californian at the World's Fair.

Pretty Work.

A few evenings since a woman who was pulling for a favorite in the Beauty Contest, slipped up on the APPEAL carrier and nailed a bundle of APPEALS which go to our outside subscribers. She secured about 200 votes and the next day some one got the exchange bundle and snaked in about a hundred more. Now we send a policeman with the boy.

Do You Need a Shirt?

If you do, the only man worth interviewing on the subject is Haskell, the Shirt Friend, who is located at the Arlington today, and will also be there on Wednesday. He has the latest styles, and his autograph goes with every order. Haskell is a little homelier than ever, though just as good natured and just as ready to give you a guaranteed fit.

SCARCITY OF COWS.

A Beef Famine Likely to Occur Soon.

The following letter explains itself: Fort McKavett, Tex., June 20. Editor Sagebrush Stockman, Reno, Nev.—DEAR SIR: We take the liberty of sending to you an extract from the "National Provisioner," bearing upon the question of a shortage in our cattle supply, which we would be pleased to have you reproduce in the columns of your paper.

Unless something is done to check the shipment of cows to market there will soon be a more serious shortage in cattle than was recently shown to exist in hogs, and it will require several years to correct the error that our producers are falling into, for the want of correct information relating to the supply and demand of cattle. We bespeak your valuable aid in presenting to Congress the importance of Senate bill No. 3522 for the creation of a "Bureau of Information and Statistics concerning Live Stock," a copy of which we enclose you. Very Respectfully.

Wm. L. Black,

Chairman Bureau of Information.

It refers to a bill passed last December by Congress. Section 2 of the bill provides:

Sec. 2. That the Secretary of Agriculture shall establish stations at suitable points, production locality, and the amounts of business in shipment live stock being considered, in each of the following named States and Territories, namely: Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Indian Territory, Kansas, Wyoming, Nebraska, South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan and Indiana; and he may establish stations in such other States and Territories as he think necessary.

Why was Nevada left out?

THE FIREMEN SNUBBED.

They Will Not Go to Reno on the Fourth.

The two fire companies of Carson have decided not to go to Reno on the Fourth. Last year the firemen of Carson paid all the expenses of the Reno firemen to come to this city and gave them a big dinner.

Nothing in Carson was too good for the Reno firemen, but this year, if the firemen of Carson go to Reno, they will have to do so at their own expense. They have therefore decided not to go. The Liberties of Gold Hill, hearing of the way the Carson companies have been snubbed, have decided not to go either. Many of the friends of the Carson firemen have decided that they will not go to Reno on the Fourth. The trouble between the two towns over the celebration is unfortunate, but no one can blame the firemen for their action.

HOW THEY GET IT.

Indians Who Drink the Drainings of Beer Kegs.

It is a common thing for Indians to frequent the back alleys where beer kegs are left in the rear of saloons until they can be taken away.

The Indians get out the bung and catch what beer they can in a tin pail. A dozen kegs will fill the pail with stale beer, not only stale but warm, but they drink it with great gusto, and a pint of it will make an Indian howling drunk.

Sometimes they get the leavings of a whisky barrel and mix with the beer. Then they go home and lick all their relatives.

Saloon keepers will do well to remove the bung and drain the cask before leaving it where the Indians can get it.

American Bimetallic league will hold a monster meeting in Omaha on the first Wednesday in August. Arrangements are already being made for it. The council is composed of T. H. Tibbles, State Vice-President; Senator W. V. Allen, Populist; the Hon. W. J. Bryan, Democrat; the Hon. E. E. Brown, Republican; D. Clem Deaver, organized labor. This meeting will be an epoch in the great contest long to be remembered. It will be Senator Allen's first appearance in Omaha.

WOMEN AND HORSES.

A Woman of Sense Gives Her Views.

ED. APPEAL:—In common with about every woman in town, I am very much amused at the efforts of some people to make out that the APPEAL insulted the ladies in the beauty contest, by comparing them to horses.

Now if there is any one thing that a woman admires it is a fine thoroughbred race horse. To my eye, it is about the finest specimen of the animal kingdom—except man—and a good deal better than some men.

We often hear a lady spoken of as a "high stepper," meaning that her carriage is graceful, and "well groomed," meaning that she lives well, is well cared for or well dressed.

A man who thinks that a woman objects to being compared to an elegant thoroughbred horse, don't know the nature of women and I might add, don't know much of anything else.

I have never met a lady who objected to such a comparison.

ONE OF THE CONTESTANTS.

[When one compares a woman to anything in the kingdom of nature, it is hard to find anything that equals her. Obviously enough, she cannot be compared with man, hence one has to seek the nearest creation of God to her, and that is found in the grace, beauty, symmetry and fire of the thoroughbred horse.]

Gladstone who first called the attention of the English reading world to the famous Russian genius Marie Bashkirtseff, said: "She had the sublime fire, dauntless impetuosity and nervous organization of the thoroughbred horse of Tartary."

Gladstone was her warmest admirer and in praising her he made the most flattering comparison he could think of.

Only a fool who cannot appreciate the fine points of either women or horses, could ever object to such a comparison.—ED. APPEAL.]

The Beauty Contest.

Orders for extra papers were thicker than leaves on the strand yesterday. The reaching of first place lies between three contestants one married, and two single ladies.

Each is still a hot favorite and their admirers all feel certain of victory.

"Are you going to the dance tonight?"

"What, do you think I would mingle in a common herd affair of that kind?"

"But you forget my dear, that our little affair comes off on Monday evening, and we want to sell all the tickets we can."

"That's so, let's all go in our best clothes, and we will corral the patronage of the masses for the cause of the Lord!"

Wells Fargo, & Co. have closed their office at Soda Springs on the C.&C. on account of the shutting down of the Mt Diablo Mill at that place and the low price of silver.
